PREFACE

The material for sight reading offered in this book may be used in two ways. Teachers who believe that the passage for translation should be placed before the pupil without preparation, will suggest for his use nothing more than the vocabulary of new words, the notes, and the rule of order accompanying each selection. Those who believe that some preparation should be made will find material suggested at the beginning of each exercise.

The grammatical references are to the common constructions found in the reading prescribed for the second year, and are illustrated in the selection which they introduce. The words which may be made the basis of a drill in inflections, as well as the words in the so-called "prescribed list," also occur in the passage. The latter are to be found in Professor Lodge's List. They include two classes: those which occur for the first time in Books III, IV, and V of the Gallic War, and those which have not occurred often or which may not have been met by the pupil in his reading of Books I and II up to the time when he sees the passage for sight work. The words of the first class are printed in heavy-faced type in the prescribed list, and in the text of the exercises when the lists are discontinued. The meanings should be given by the teacher. The rules relating to the arrangement of the words in the sentence are intended to guide the pupil in observing the grouping of words and their dependence.

The meaning of every word in the passage is given if not found in Lodge's List. Each exercise is complete in itself. Words are therefore repeated whenever necessary, even though they have appeared in previous exercises.

The book contains rather more matter than is included in Books III and IV of the Gallic War. The first thirty exercises are taken from Eutropius, Aulus Gellius, Pliny, Cicero, and Livy. In some cases needed modifications have been made in the Latin, especially in the Livy.

The other exercises are taken from Nepos's lives of Hannibal and Hamilcar, from Cæsar's Civil War, and from Books III to VII, inclusive, of the Gallic War. In every case the attempt has been made to have the Latin tell a complete episode or story in a series of exercises. Where chapters have been omitted, a résumé of the contents is given in English.

SUGGESTIONS FOR READING AT SIGHT

To understand a Latin sentence three things must be known : the forms, the relations of the words to one another, and their meanings. Each one of these must be noted and remembered while the sentence is passing under the eye of the reader.

First, then, read each sentence through slowly and thoughtfully, aloud if possible, trying to decide, when each word is reached, what its form is or may be. Do not, when reading the sentence for the first or even for the second time, let the eye jump from place to place, but take each word as it comes. Often the next word will make plain the form of the one before it. Sometimes the form will be perfectly plain when the end of the sentence is reached. Sometimes a word may be in any one of several forms, and the first reading may not show which one it is.

After having read the sentence through in this way one or more times with the forms chiefly in mind, read it once more, trying to see rather how the words are related to one another. Of course it is not possible to avoid doing this to some extent when the sentence is read the first time, but put the attention strongly on this point now. The meanings of many of the words will naturally rise in the mind while this is being done, and will help to show the connection between the parts of the different phrases ; for the other readings will have made it clear that the sentence contains a number of groups of words, perhaps prepositional phrases, perhaps nouns limited by an adjective or by a genitive or an ablative, or perhaps clauses of one kind or another. By omitting these mentally in the reading, when they are discovered, the simple, independent statement, which is the real backbone of the sentence, will be found. After this, another reading will usually show the relation which these groups have to one another and to the main statement.

If the structure is still not clear, the pupil should read the sentence again and again, following the same method, till the light comes. Sometimes the difficulty arises from an ignorance of some principle of syntax or an uncertainty about a form, which must be cleared up by reference to the grammar; or it may come from the hazy memory of the meaning of a word.

After all this the meaning of the whole sentence should be fairly certain, and it should not be a difficult matter to put it into English. If the meaning of a word has escaped the memory, leave a blank for this word in translating the sentence, and often the translation will show what meaning the unknown word must have.

It may seem that this requires much time and is a slow way of getting at the meaning. It is true that for a while this will be so. But the mind must be trained to grasp the meaning of the sentence in the order in which the Roman author developed it in his own mind, and in the order in which he put it in writing. The emphasis in a sentence is lost if the sentence is not read and interpreted in the order in which it is written. This is the only method that leads to accuracy and rapidity in understanding the language; for the Romans were particular about the placing of words, and the study of arrangement, therefore, is of the utmost importance.

THE FORMATION OF WORDS

Many Latin words are made from other Latin words by adding to the stem certain syllables called suffixes.

Those which should be taught to the pupil are given below.

tor. This suffix is added to verb stems or roots to show the doer or the agent of the action, as imperātor = imperā (stem of imperō, command) + tor = one who commands, a commander.

victor = vic (root of vincō, conquer) + tor = one who conquers, a conqueror, a victor.

Observe the English equivalents of this suffix.

Occasionally the suffix appears as sor, as in dēfēnsor, for dēfēndtor.

Explain the formation of the following :

mercātor, explōrātor, speculātor, gubernātor, adiūtor.

iō, tiō, tus. These suffixes are added to verb stems or roots to form nouns which show an act or its result, as legiō = leg (root of legō, choose, levy) + iō = the act or result of levying, a legion.

ōrātiō = ōrā (stem of ōrō, plead) + tiō = the act or result of pleading, a speech, oration.

conventus = conven (con, together, + ven, root of veniō, come) + tus = the act or the result of coming together or assembling, assembly, convention.

Observe the English equivalents of these suffixes.

Occasionally the suffix tus appears as sus, as in cursus (from currō) for curtus.

Explain the formation of the following :

coniūrātiō, mūnitiō, dēditiō, oppugnātiō, nāvigātiō, obsidiō, dēfēnsiō, occāsus, discessus, mōtus.

ia, tia, tās, tūs, tūdō. These suffixes are added to the stems of adjectives or nouns to form nouns.

The suffixes ia, tia, tās, tūdō, added to adjective stems, form abstract nouns denoting quality, as potentia = potent (stem of potēns, able, from possum) + ia = ability.

iūstitia = iūsti (weakened stem of iūstus, fair, just) + tia = fairness, justice.

celeritās = celeri (stem of celer, swift) + tās = swiftness.

magnitūdō = magni (weakened stem of magnus, great) + tūdō = greatness, magnitude.

Observe the English equivalents of these suffixes.

Explain the formation of the following :

memoria, grātia, audācia, diligentia, sententia, amicitia, nōbilitās, libertās, altitūdō, fortitūdō, multitūdō.

The suffixes ia, tās, tūs, added to noun stems, form nouns denoting a condition or a characteristic, as militia = milit (stem of miles, soldier) + ia = military service.

civitas = civi (stem of civis, citizen) + tās = citizenship.

servitūs = servi (weakened stem of servus, slave) + tūs = slavery, servitude.

Observe the English equivalents of these suffixes.

Explain the formation of the following :

victōria, auctōritās, tempestās, virtūs, senectūs.

The meanings of words are often changed by prefixing syllables, usually prepositions, which have their original force as adverbs. The most common meanings of the following should be taught to the pupil :

ab(ā), ad, ante, circum, con, dē, dis-(dī-), ex(ē), in, in-, inter, ob, per, prae, prō, re(d)-, sub, trāns.

Determine the meaning of the prefix in the following :

absum, āvertō, addūcō, advertō, antepōnō, antecēdō, circumveniō, circum-sistō, conveniō, cōferō, dēciō, dēcurrō, dispōnō, dīmittō, ēnūntiō, expellō, instō, insequor, incredibilis, inermis, intercēdō, interpōnō, oppugnō, occurrō, perdūcō, perspicīō, praestō, praemittō, prōiciō, prōcēdō, respiciō, renovō, redeō, suscipiō, trānseō, trādūcō.

NEW WORDS

The following list includes such words of Caesar, in Professor Lodge's Vocabulary for High School Latin, as do not occur in Books I and II of the Gallic War. With each is given the page and line where it first appears in this book. The meaning should be fixed in mind at the time when the word is first met.

NOTES

⁶ quam: relative pronoun. ⁷ haec ferē ēgit: he did about as follows. ⁸ civitātem: this word and civitāte above refer to Rome. ⁹ centum: indeclinable. Senātōrēs below shows that virōs is understood with centum.

¹⁰ senectūtem: derive the meaning of this word by connecting it with the stem of senex. What does senātōrēs really mean? ¹¹ cum: causal.

¹² invītāvit: infer the meaning from the English derivative. ¹³ spectāculum: see note on invītāvit. ¹⁴ eārum: refers to nātiōnēs. ¹⁵ raptārum: render by a demonstrative and a relative clause. ¹⁶ annō: compare this use of the word with that in annōs above. ¹⁷ trānsisse: trāns + eō.

¹⁸ Rōmae: locative. ¹⁹ rēgnantibus: from rēgnō. Think of rēgnum and regō.

This passage contains three examples of the ablative absolute. By what kind of clause should each be translated?

EXERCISE II

Grammar: A. 282; 286; 343; 362; 370; 419. B. 169. 1; 233, 3; 234; 198; 195; 187, I, III; 227. G. 320; 289; 362; 345; 347; 409. H. 393; 394; 440, 1; 424; 429; 489.

Inflection: augeō; mōs; minus (compare); hīc.

Order of words : the arrangement of the words in the sentence represents the order of the development of the thought in the mind of the writer.

NOTES

¹ cum: what part of speech? Consider the case of Tuscis. ² Iovī: dative case of Iuppiter. ³ exclūsus est: from exclūdō. Infer the meaning from the English derivative. ⁴ imperāsset: for imperāvisset; the v is dropped and the two vowels are contracted. ⁵ Rōmae: what question about rēgnātum est does this word seem to answer? ⁶ rēgnātum est: the ending um shows that the subject is neuter, it. Such impersonal forms are often used, where the English idiom employs the personal construction; the government was carried on. ⁷ duo: take with cōsulēs. ⁸ malus: predicate adjective. ⁹ placuit: impersonal. ¹⁰ insolentiōrēs: first determine the positive; then infer the meaning from the English derivative. ¹¹ sē: to what word does it refer? For the case, note the ending of futūrōs.

Think of English words from pācem, aedificāvit, positam, ūnus.

THE CHARACTER OF HANNIBAL AND HIS ACTIVITY IN SPAIN

Hannibal¹ post primum Pūnicum² bellum blandiēbat patrī Hamilcarī ut in Hispāniam dūceretur. Dixit sē hostem futūrum esse populō Rōmānō. Post paucōs annōs missus est Hannibal in Hispāniam. Statim omnem exercitum in sē convertit. Hamilcarem iuvenem redditum esse sibi³ veterēs milites crēdidērunt. Et imperātōri⁴ et exercituī cārus erat. Nūllō labōre aut corpus fatigārī⁵ aut animus vincī poterat. Multī saepe humī⁶ eum iacentem inter stationēs militum vidērunt. Equitum peditumque longē prīmus erat. Princeps in proelium ibat,⁷ ultimus ē proeliō excēdēbat. Trīs annōs sub Hasdrubale⁸ imperātōre meruit. Ex quō diē Hannibal dux dēclārātus est, Saguntinīs⁹ bellum inferre statuit. In Olcadum prius finis exercitum dūxit. Cartalam, caput gentis eius, expugnāvit. Minōrēs civitatēs, stipendiō impositō, imperium accēpērunt. Victor exercitus Carthāginem Novam in hiberna dēductus est. — LIVY

Hamilcar, Hannibalis¹ filius, cognōmine Barca, Carthāginiēnsis, primō Pūnicō bellō, sed temporibus² extrēmīs, admodum adulēscentulus in Siciliā praeesse coepit exercituī. Cum³ ante eius adventum et marī et terrā male rēs gererentur Carthāginiēnsium, ipse ubi adfuit numquam hostī cessit neque locum⁴ nocendī dedit, saepeque ē contrāriō occāsiōne datā laccessivī⁵ semperque superior discessit. Quō factō, cum paene omnia in Siciliā Poenī āmīssent, ille Erycem⁶ sic dēfendit ut bellum eō locō gestum nōn vidērētur. Interim Carthāginiēnsēs classe⁷ apud īnsulās Aegātēs ā Gāiō Lutātiō, cōsule Rōmānōrum, superātī statuērunt belli facere finem, eamque rem arbitriō permīsērunt Hamilcaris. Ille etsī flagrabat bellandī cupiditāte,⁸ tamen pāci serviendum⁹ putāvit, quod patriam exhaustam sūmptibus¹⁰ diūtius calamitātēs belli ferre nōn posse intellegēbat; sed ita ut statim mente agitāret.¹¹ sī paulum modo rēs essent reffectae, bellum renovāre Rōmānōsque armīs persequī¹² dōnicum aut virtūte vicissent aut victi manūs dedissent. Hōc cōsiliō pācem conciliāvit. In quō¹³ tantā fuit ferōciā,¹⁴ cum Catulus

CAESAR FINDS THAT THE CITY OF MASSILIA IS MAKING READY TO OPPOSE HIM

Cæsar and Pompey once had been friends. Indeed, Pompey had married Cæsar's daughter Julia, and had been closely associated with him in some of his greatest undertakings. But the changing circumstances of the times and Julia's death had weakened the ties that once bound them, and they were now enemies. Cæsar has just been in Rome, and through the senate has tried to bring about a reconciliation with Pompey, but in vain.

Caesar ab urbe proficiscitur atque in ulteriōrem Galliam pervenit. Cæsar leads his army across and devastates the territory. He promises the Ubii his help if the Suebi trouble them. He learns that the Suebi have retreated. So having accomplished his purpose, he returns to Gaul and destroys the bridge. He then determines to visit Britain because from there help is sent regularly to the enemies of the Romans in Gaul.

With the exception of the Aedui and the Remi, whom Cæsar had always especially honored, there is hardly a state that he does not suspect of considering a revolt.

EXERCISE XCVI

Order of words: in general a phrase or limiting expression is more likely to limit or depend on a word closely following it than on one that has gone before. This is because the limiting word is usually the emphatic part of the phrase.

Under the leadership of Vercingetorix, the most heroic figure in the struggle of Gaul against the Romans, a general uprising occurs. After much desperate fighting, sacking of towns, and laying waste of fields, the advantage being on the side of the Romans, Vercingetorix makes a last stand in Alesia, now called Alise-Sainte-Reine, a town in central Gaul.

Plutarch says that Vercingetorix put on his finest armor and upon his war horse came forth from the town. After riding around Cæsar several times as he sat in his tribunal, he dismounted, took off his armor, and seated himself at Cæsar's feet. He sat there in silence till Cæsar ordered him to be removed and kept for his triumph in Rome. There he was led in the triumphal procession and afterwards put to death in prison.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

TWO LATIN PLAYS

By SUSAN PAXSON, Teacher of Latin and German, High School, Omaha, Nebr.

12mo, cloth, xii + 39 pages, 45 cents

¶ "A Roman School" and "A Roman Wedding" are the only dramatizations in Latin which are in any way suitable for reproduction in the high schools. They were written by the author for the purpose of creating a new interest in the study of the classics among secondary pupils, and, as given already in several schools, have proved an effective stimulus to the class work.

¶ The plays give in turn a picture of school life in the days of Cæsar and Cicero, and again, of a high-class Roman wedding in the same period.

¶ The greatest care has been taken to make the detail authentic and the descriptions true to life. The diction is accurately classic, and there is plenty of humor and action.

¶ As a means of producing a genuine appreciation of Roman life and customs, and of making real the character of Latin literature, the book has unusual educational value.

LATIN COMPOSITION FOR SECONDARY SCHOOLS

12mo, cloth, 131 + 190 pages, $1.00

PART I, BASED ON CÆSAR'S "GALLIC WAR." 12mo, cloth, xii + 131 pages, 50 cents

PARTS II AND III, BASED ON "CICERO." 12mo, cloth, 190 pages, 60 cents

PART I comprises the first volume and is to be used in connection with the first four books of "Cæsar" during the second year.

Parts II and III form the second volume. Part II, intended to accompany the work of the third year, is based on Cicero's "Manilian Law," "Catiline," I-IV, and the "Archias." Part III, designed for a review of syntax in the fourth year, consists of thirty-five lessons of miscellaneous sentences based on "Cæsar" and "Cicero," and is accompanied by a special Vocabulary.

LATIN COMPOSITION TO ACCOMPANY GREENOUGH, D'OOGÉ, AND DANIELL'S SECOND YEAR LATIN

12mo, cloth, x + 131 pages, 50 cents

THIS book has been especially prepared for schools using Greenough, D'Ooge, and Daniell's "Second Year Latin." With the second volume of D'Ooge's "Latin Composition for Secondary Schools" it forms a complete course for schools that precede their work in "Cicero" with "Second Year Latin" rather than with the first four books of "Cæsar."

LATIN COMPOSITION TABLET

8vo tablet, 60 pages, 15 cents

THIS composition tablet includes a system of signs for the correction of exercises. The plan lessens the labor of the teacher and gives the pupil an opportunity for more than the usual amount of Latin writing.
